

IIM Jammu organizes day 3 of 'HR Conclave 4.0'

NL CORRESPONDENT
JAMMU TAWI, SEPT 25

Continuing its flagship event series, the Indian Institute of Management Jammu conducted day three of the HR conclave, here today. The session commenced with an introductory speech by Prof Rajni Ranjan, Placements Officer, IIM Jammu, about the conclave where he mentioned, "To win the marketplace, you have to win at the workplace". This was followed by a summary about IIM Jammu by Prof Jabir Ali, MBA Placements, IIM Jammu, who emphasized the remarkable journey of the institute. The insightful words by Prof B.S Sahay, Director, IIM Jammu, "Management is not to be taught, but it has to be practiced," set the tone for the discussion.

The topic of discussion for the panel was 'The HR Imperative - Integrating Human and Technology Environment', which was moderated by Arun Kaimal, Director HR, Danaher Corporation (Singapore). The panel discussed integrating the human force with the upcoming technology and how replacing daily unproductive jobs with technology is inevitable. They mentioned that this would be a significant change, leading to an organization's more efficient working structure. They also highlighted that the coming future would see a drastic change in the roles of managers as they will be shifting towards a more business partner role than just overlooking a specific task of a domain. The final notion emphasized that technology should be adopted to enhance the customer experience and reduce the waste of resources rather than just upskilling to match the current trend in the market.

Followed by this enriching discussion, there was an engaging question and answer session between the panelists and the students of IIM Jammu, which helped the students better understand the demands of the future business world. The session concluded with some advice from the panel wherein they suggested the students to pursue their hobbies and aspirations. The session ended with a vote of thanks extended to all the panelists.

IIM conducts day-3 proceedings of 'HR Conclave 4.0'

■ STATE TIMES NEWS

JAMMU: Continuing its flagship event series, the Indian Institute of Management Jammu seamlessly conducted day three of the HR conclave on Saturday.

The session commenced with an introductory speech by Prof Rajni Ranjan, Placements Officer, IIM Jammu, about the conclave where he mentioned, "To win the marketplace, you have to win at the workplace".

This was followed by a summary about IIM Jammu by Prof Jabir Ali, MBA Placements, IIM Jammu, who emphasized the remarkable journey of the institute. The insightful words by Prof B.S Sahay, Director, IIM Jammu, "Management is not to be taught, but it has to be practiced," set the tone for the discussion.

The topic of discussion for the panel was 'The HR Imperative - Integrating Human and Technology Environment', which was moderated by Mr Arun Kaimal, Director HR, Danaher Corporation (Singapore). The panelists for the discussion were Anshul Joshi, Associate Director HR, MSD (Singapore); Priyanka Dixit, Global Talent Acquisition Partner, Johnson & Johnson (USA); Kundan Kumar, Country HR Head, Malaysia & Brunei, GSK (Malaysia); Tina Sharma, Senior Vice President, and Head, Human Resources, SBI (Singapore); Sowmya Velpuri, Talent Manager, Caissa Recruitment (Germany).

The panel holistically discussed integrating the human force with the upcoming technology and how replacing daily unproductive jobs with technology is inevitable. They mentioned that this would be a significant change, leading to an organization's more efficient working structure. They also added, the need to make ourselves more technology-friendly is increasing day by day, but we do not need to be experts; we should understand the essential functions and the flow of information. The implementation of technology into the organization must be done based on the appetite of the employees to absorb it and work with it comfortably. They also highlighted that the coming future would see a drastic change in the roles of managers as they will be shifting towards a more business partner role than just overlooking a specific task of a domain.

The final notion emphasized that technology should be adopted to enhance the customer experience and reduce the waste of resources rather than just upskilling to match the current trend in the market. Followed by this enriching discussion, there was an engaging question and answer session between the panelists and the students of IIM Jammu, which helped the students better understand the demands of the future business world. The session concluded with some advice from the panel wherein they suggested the students to pursue their hobbies and aspirations. They also put forth the importance of cross-functionality and mindfulness to succeed in the corporate world. The visionaries then stated that while doing all this hard work, one should enjoy the journey and not forget to give back to society and culture. The session ended with a Vote of Thanks extended to all the panelists.
